

COMMISSIONER ANTHONY EID BIOGRAPHY

As a 28-year-old Chaldean and Lebanese American raised in Southeast Michigan, Commissioner Anthony Eid affiliates as an Independent on the Michigan Independent Citizens Redistricting Commission (MICRC).

Being a young, middle eastern Michigander, Commissioner Eid applied for the MICRC for the following reasons: provide a non-partisan, data and evidence driven approach to redistricting, provide diversity of thought, culture, and age to the commission, and create maps that represent the people of Michigan and ensure free and fair elections.

Eid grew up in Orchard Lake before moving to Detroit to peruse a higher education. He received two bachelor's degrees from Wayne State University in 2015, and then received a master's degree in 2017. He then completed two years of Medical School prior to serving on the MICRC and hopes to become an Orthopedic surgeon one day. While in College, he was elected to serve as the WSU Student Body President and served in many leadership, community, and volunteer roles. He is a strong believer in the power of advocacy, and his background in science allows him to practice evidence-based decision making. Eid was as strong supporter of Proposal 2 and was extremely happy to have been selected to serve on the MICRC.
