1 The Michigan Driving Record

The Michigan Driving Record (MDR) established by Michigan law contains information for individuals licensed in Michigan, unlicensed drivers, and out-of-state licensed drivers convicted of traffic violations in Michigan. The MDR is compiled of information submitted by the Secretary of State branch offices, internal units, courts, police agencies, other states, and the Department of Community Health.

1.1 MDR Components

The MDR has three components: the driver's license header, status, and the driving history or body.

The driver's license header appears first on the MDR. The header displays an individual's driver's license number, full name, date of birth, demographic information (sex, eye color, height, & weight), residence and mailing addresses, and credential information broken out by license type (operator, commercial learner's permit, temporary instruction permit, etc.). The header may also display issuance and medical restrictions, previous/AKA names, previous/AKA driver's license numbers, endorsements, Transportation Security Administration (TSA) background checks, self-certification information, and medical certification information.

Status appears immediately after the header information on the MDR. Status will display the individual's current standing and any active actions impacting them.

The driving history or body displays below the status section on MDR. Driving history includes Conviction for traffic violations, Failures to Appear in Court (FAC) and Failures to Comply with Judgment (FCJ), Traffic Crashes, 625G Permits, etc. Driving history also includes actions for suspensions, revocations, restrictions, etc.

Information displayed on the MDR may change depending on the type of record that is generated.

1.2 Versions of the MDR

Michigan Driving Record – This is the complete version of the driving record. It is typically used by internal units within MDOS and can be purchased by the customer. This version of the record displays all regular driving activity as well as not at-fault crashes, at-fault crashes without a matching conviction, and any conviction linked to a Basic Driver Improvement Course (BDIC).

Limited Driving Record – This version of the driving record is typically purchased by individuals who need to provide a version of their record to their employer. This version of the record does not display not-at-fault crashes, at-fault crashes without a matching conviction, and any conviction linked to a passed or pending Basic Driver Improvement Course (BDIC).

Employer Driving Record – This version of the record is typically requested by an employer. It contains additional CDL-related information including medical certificate details. This version of the record does not display not-at-fault crashes, at-fault crashes without a matching conviction, and any conviction linked to a Basic Driver Improvement Course (BDIC).

2 Sample Driving Record

2.1 Sample Driving Record Key - Letter

1. The first section of the Michigan Driving Record is the header. At the top of the header, the type of record generated and the individual's Michigan driver's license number will display.
2. The date displayed at the top is the date the record was generated.
3. Basic demographics information displays in the Demographics section of the record. This includes the individual's full name (first, middle, last), date of birth, sex, eye color, height, and weight.
4. Address information displays in the Address section of the record. The residence address will display by default. If the individual also has a mailing address on record, it will display in this section. Previous/AKA names and driver's license numbers will also display here, when applicable.
5. The Credential section displays information about the most recently issued credential and any active permits. The license type, issue type, whether the individual is REAL ID compliant, their legal presence status, the last issue date of the base license, and the expiration date of the base license also display in this section. If applicable, the record will also display CDL group, endorsements, and restrictions. Endorsements and restrictions are not limited to CDL or CLP holders and may include motorcycle endorsements, corrective lens restrictions, control restrictions, etc.
6. The TSA Background Check section only displays if the results from a TSA background check was provided. The status, response date and expiration date may be displayed.
7. The Self-Certification section will only display if the most recently issued credential is a commercial driver's license or the individual holds an active commercial learner's permit.
8. The Medical Certificate information will display for those who are certified as non-excepted interstate.
9. The second section of the Michigan Driving Record is the status of the driver. The status of the individual's non-commercial license, non-commercial learner's permit, state identification (ID), commercial license, and commercial learner's permit display. If the individual does not hold one of these credential types, the record will indicate whether they are eligible to obtain one. If there are active actions impacting the individual's status, they will also display in this section.
10. The third section of the Michigan Driving Record is the body of the record. The body will display any record activity including convictions, crashes, FAC's/FCJ's, etc.
11. Each Driver Control Element that posts to a record is issued a unique, system-generated Record ID. This ID is not consecutive when viewing the MDR.
12. Elements on the driving record may be directly related to or stem from other elements on the record. For example, if an Operating While Intoxicated conviction is received, it may result in an action for a suspension followed by a restricted license. If an element is related to another element on the record, a number will display below the Source header. This number is the Record ID for the other element it is related to.
13. The type of element will display below the Type header on the record. Some different element types include convictions, traffic crashes, 625G permits, etc.

- 14. Active points will display on the record below the Points header. If the two-year retention date is met, points will not display on the record. If a conviction is linked to a passed Basic Driver Improvement Course (BDIC), CARS will display the point total as zero.
- 15. The Michigan Driving Record is organized by posted date with the oldest activity on the record displaying first. The Posted Date will display on the far-right side of the body of the record.
- 16. Additional information about the activity on the record will display below the Description header. For convictions, this information may include violation date, conviction date, offense code, hazardous action code, etc. For actions, the description will detail the length of the licensing action, any open requirements the individual must comply to reinstate to full privileges, restrictions, etc.

3 Driving Record Activity

The following list provides examples of how specific driving record activity displays on the Michigan Driving Record.

Basic Driver Improvement Course (BDIC)

Description
Results: Passed
Completion Date: 28-Feb-2021

Comments: The Basic Driver Improvement Course element type displays the window of time the individual is eligible to take BDIC. The BDIC Results entry indicates whether the driver passed, failed, or did not take a course. If a customer is eligible for and passes BDIC, the corresponding conviction will not display on certain versions of the driving record. The Michigan Driving Record version will always display the conviction, but no points will be assessed unless the eligibility window closes without a passed result.
